Citation: Ed Fisher Collection, West Texas Collection, Angelo State University, San Angelo, Texas

Administrative/Biographical History:

Ed Fisher was born 8 November 1924 to a pioneer West Texas family, Albert and Edith Fisher. He always described himself as a “dogie” because he was reared by Ira Driver. He graduated from Texas A&M University, the Thunderbird Graduate School of International Management, and Texas Tech University with an MBA. During World War II, Fisher served with the 1st and 9th Armies in Europe. He married Evalena Blowey.

Ed Fisher had a varied career. He taught at Angelo State University, surveyed land, and worked in real estate. After his retirement he poured himself into writing about the history of West Texas.

Scope and Content:

The majority of the collection pertains to the history of West Texas and those who settled the country. Fisher was also extremely interested in surveying and land records. The collection includes a large number of maps.
